

VISPRING UNVEILS NEW 2026 COLLECTIONS AT SALONE DEL MOBILE

Leading British luxury bedmaker presents landmark launches at Milan's most prestigious design fair, celebrating 125 years of handcrafted sleep

Vispring, the world's leading luxury bed and mattress maker, makes its highly anticipated return to Salone del Mobile, Milan, unveiling its most significant new collections to date. The 2026 presentations mark a milestone moment, coinciding with Vispring's 125th anniversary, and reaffirm the brand's place at the pinnacle of international luxury design.

Salone del Mobile marks the global debut of an exclusive collaboration with renowned British designer Tom Dixon - a partnership uniting two icons of British design in a celebration of artistry, craftsmanship, and heritage. Visitors to the Vispring stand can also discover the new Luxe Fabric Collection, curated in collaboration with celebrated fabric houses including Dedar and Andrew Martin, alongside the two new Burlington and Langley headboard designs and the Katherine Bed Set.

Vispring will present its new launches at Salone del Mobile from 21st to 26th April at Stand A11, Pavilion 15.

Discussing Vispring's presence at Salone del Mobile, Martin Gill, Managing Director of Vispring, states, "It is always an honour to present at Salone del Mobile in Milan, and 2026 is even more special as we celebrate Vispring's 125th anniversary and an exciting designer collaboration. Whilst we reflect on more than a century of Vispring, the new launches exemplify our rich heritage rooted in British craftsmanship and quality, made using the same traditional workmanship and natural materials we have used to make Vispring mattresses since 1901. These remain at the forefront of our brand over a century later, allowing us to bring exceptional sleep to more homes around the world, while staying true to who we are and what has always set us apart."

VISPRING X TOM DIXON

Debuting at Salone del Mobile, Vispring presents an exclusive collaboration with acclaimed British designer, Tom Dixon. The partnership brings together two pioneering British institutions in a celebration of artistry, craftsmanship, and exceptional design - creating a collection of headboards and a bed design that marks a new chapter for both brands.

Crafted at Vispring's Plymouth workshop, the collection features four new headboards and one bed, two of which will be featured at Vispring's stand: the Wingback Headboard and Fat Bed, inspired by best-selling products within the Tom Dixon range.

United by a shared commitment to quality and a fearless approach to creativity, the collaboration marks a natural meeting of minds. Where Vispring has spent 125 years perfecting the art of sleep, Tom Dixon has spent decades redefining the boundaries of material, form, and function.

Vispring's new collection also presents two new headboard designs: The Burlington, which will be presented at Vispring's stand at Salone, and The Langley, which will be on display at Vispring's Milan showroom.

The Burlington headboard is an expression of classic craftsmanship, reinterpreted through a modern lens. Its clean, structured form is elevated by a meticulously executed piped edge, lending definition and a sense of tailored refinement. Understated yet distinctive, Burlington offers a more architectural presence, ideal for spaces that favour clarity of line and enduring style. The precise detailing highlights Vispring's dedication to craftsmanship, while its proportions ensure a balanced and harmonious aesthetic. Elegant, composed, and quietly confident, Burlington is designed to endure.

The Langley headboard introduces a gentle, architectural silhouette defined by its softly tapered form and subtle curvature. Designed to cocoon and support, its cushioned structure creates an inviting focal point within the bedroom. A refined interplay of proportion and texture lends Langley a quiet sophistication. The surface detailing, delicately structured yet visually soft, adds depth without distraction, allowing the materiality to take centre stage. Balancing comfort with contemporary elegance, Langley is designed for interiors that favour understated luxury and tactile warmth.
